

April 6, 2006

I urge you to do anything within your legal power to prevent WalMart from further negatively influencing our communities. Their history speaks for itself in their treatment of employees and destruction of all other businesses in their sights.

I value my choices and utilize my right to change banks, stores and services whenever I feel that company is not giving me the most for my hard-earned dollar. WalMart seeks, by their own admission, to become the one and only source for "everything." That would leave me with NO choices, and more importantly, no alternatives if they treat me badly as a customer.

I have every confidence that if WalMart has no real competition in America, they will run roughshod over consumers.

Thank you for your consideration.

Deborah Welsh